FORD

Wanted It Himself.
Our friend Gillson's pastor met our friend Gillson on the street, Monday. After the greetings had been exchanged, the dominie said: "Brother Gillson, I'm sorry to be the bearer of painful news, but it is my duty to impart it. Yesterday—Sunday—I saw your little son going fishing!" "You did, did you?" cried Gillson. "That boy is headed straight for destruction. Went fishing on Sunday, did he? I shall punish him severely. I thought it was funny I couldn't find my fishing rod!"

His Criticism.
An old man stood on the street corner in Cherryvale when the trolley stopped and let off a woman passenger. She had on a linen dress, a Panama hat, champagne-colored hose and strapped pumps. "Gosh!" exclaimed the old man. "I'd spend less money on my bonnet and buy some socks."—Cherryvale (Kan.) Journal.

MANY NORTHWESTERN
LOCOMOTIVES HAVE PATENT FRONT ENDS

606 Engines Equipped With New Spark Arresters Which Aid Materially in Prevention of Forest and Marsh Fires.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Sept. 1.—The Chicago & Northwestern railway company has 606 locomotives equipped with spark arresters, and has issued instructions for properly fitting all locomotives with this device together with hoods on top of the stacks, when they go into logging camps or off from the railroad's right of way. This information was contained in a letter to State Forester L. M. Griffith from Robert Quayle, superintendent of motive power for the Northwestern company, and greatly gratified the forester for its aid of cooperation in the prevention of forest fires and complying with the new law relating thereto.

Mr. Quayle asked for a half dozen pamphlets relative to forest and marsh fires with the purpose of placing them in the hands of the men immediately in charge of the motive power throughout the state of Wisconsin. The Northwestern company has taken the most advanced grounds of all companies in meeting the situation of forest fire dangers and at an expenditure of many thousands of dollars has experimented with spark arresters until it has now developed one that is not far from perfect. One of its master mechanics is the inventor.

New Front Ends.
"We have been fitting all our engines with the new patented front ends," writes Mr. Quayle, "and the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul have also been in service trying them out. The Duluth & Iron Range Railway had one or two in service and are so well pleased with them that they want to put them on all their power. One or two logging roads have looked into this matter and they thought so well of it that they are equipping their engines."

"We have 606 locomotives on the C. & N. W. now equipped, and that all within a year, and the Ashland division has only five more engines to equip to complete all the locomotives on that division. The Lake Shore division is in like manner equipped, and the same is true of the Peninsula division."

"We have given particular attention to the new patent front ends and we have been paying much attention to lines west of Chicago, our main object being to get the engines fitted up first in the territory, where we are likely to have the most trouble."

Mr. Quayle detailed the excellent features of the new device by which the liability is reduced.
"The longer we use it the more we think of it," he said. "I think, too, that in the end it is going to save the railway some money, as repairs will be very much less on account of its construction."

Solves Spark Problem.
The Northwestern company has been experimenting for years with an effective spark arrester, and two of its locomotives were subjects for experiment last winter at the Purdue university engineering school. The engineers believe they are near to the solution of the problem of a perfect arrester that involves the action of centrifugal force to drive the burning cinders from the front of the engine back into the furnace to be burned a second time.

The invention which the company is now using was tried out some time ago on its line between Green Bay and Oshkosh, about 50 miles. In the party were State Forester Griffith, Prof. J. G. D. Mack of the Wisconsin railroad commission, and officials of the road. Prof. Mack took his station in the cab at intervals and as the fireless coal was piled on to the fireless engine so that the steam gauge was kept up to the highest point. The smoke emitted from the stack was an excellent test of what was required, and the watchers from the cupola of the engine saw only 21 sparks during the whole trip. These "went out" before they touched the ground.

It is believed the time is not far distant when all railroads in Wisconsin will equip their engines with these safety devices.

INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF TUESDAY'S WRECK

Employees In Chicago Yesterday Giving Testimony To Determine Persons To Blame.—Discharges Expected To Follow.

Yardmaster Grogan and a few other employees of the company were called to Chicago to give what information they could concerning the recent wreck at the South Janesville yards, when eleven men were injured and a property loss of a few thousand dollars was inflicted upon the shippers and the company.

The train crew from the Madison division, which was in charge of one of the engines involved in the wreck was called also, and the whole matter was carefully investigated to determine who was to blame for the accident. It is expected that one or more men employed on the train that were in the wreck will be discharged as the result of the information gained at this hearing and by the officials here.

CONDUCTOR WARD
IMPROVING RAPIDLY

Injuries Not So Serious As At First Feared.—May Not Lose His Eye.—Will Be Incapacitated For Some Time.

Although Conductor Charles Ward who was severely injured last Monday when he was cornered and crushed between two cars at the "Y" at Jefferson Junction is still confined to the hospital the extent of his injuries is not so great as was feared at first. The first advice received after the accident seemed to indicate that Mr. Ward would suffer the loss of his eye.

At present the doctors feel hopeful that the eye can be saved although it may trouble him for some time. The eyeball is badly cut and the first examination seemed to show that the sight of the eye would be lost, which would be certain to disqualify Mr. Ward for further service on the road. Later developments and the rapid improvement in the patient's general condition tends to strengthen the hope of Mr. Ward and his friends that the injured eye will be saved.

Conductor Ward is still in the hospital at Jefferson and it will be some time before he will be able to get around as the injuries to his shoulders and ribs are proving rather painful and will incapacitate him for duty for a few weeks at least.

Otto Triple who has been employed on the car repair force has resigned.

Engineer Yates went out this morning with Conductor Perry on the Burlington run.

Switchman Liphthuber left today on a vacation of about three weeks. His place on the down town run will be taken by Switchman Schumacher.

Engineer Coen went out on the way freight in the place of Engineer Spohn today.

Engineer Starritt is relieving Schultz in the gravel service for the day.

Night Switchtender Hier is taking a layoff for a few weeks.

Ernest Williams, boiler maker, has resigned.

BRILLIANT PLAYING OF EDGERTON STARS IN TENNIS MATCHES

Whitett and McIntosh Defeat Culton and Parr In Spectacular Match.—Other Results Yesterday.—Schedule Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Sept. 1.—The tennis matches here Thursday were witnessed by a large gallery of spectators who cheered the contestants for their wonderful playing. In all the contests the playing was of the professional style, approaching in skill the contests played by Newport champions.

The best tennis ever pulled off here in doubles was the play in which Lowell Whitett and Charles McIntosh defeated Culton and Parr in the closest all around playing. Time and again it brought applause from the gallery. It was a match where each side was strong at the net and where one could easily see the true ground strokes and lobbing a feature. The sets were singularly alike, for in each case the winners got the jump on their opponents and never let up playing, while their own defense was strong at all times.

The "two midlets" began playing in grand style, when Culton and Parr managed to reach the net and their opponents lobbed over their heads or passed them with some wonderfully fast drives. The first set was won by Culton and Parr after a hard fight. After having the games 5-2 against them, the boys pulled off some fine playing and brought the score to 5-4, then it went to 6-4. But the flashing Lawford of both Parr and Culton soon won from them taking the set at 6-4.

The second one found the boys at their best, though it started off as if it were going to be a repetition of the first. They managed to run the games to 5-4 when with McIntosh's serving brilliantly, making five consecutive aces in one game they ran the set out at 7-5, thus making the sets 1-1, each player in top notch form. The pace these two young phenomans had set seemed to tell on their more experienced opponents, for their drives lacked the speed and their lob was short thus enabling the boys to chop the balls off on either side of the net. However, Culton and Parr put up a wonderful stand but could not stop the onslaught of "the midlets" losing the third and final set at 6-1.

A peculiar incident happened in the match in which H. McIntosh and C. Jensen lost to Cleary and Miller by scores of 4-6, 6-2, 6-2. Playing carefully, at all times, the losers never realized what a handicap of two points on every game was to give until the final set came when they tried to come back but failed. The winners, however, played a good game and a warm reception was extended them when the final game was won.

In a match where fast playing was conspicuous, O. J. Jensen and W. McIntosh defeated Hruska and Gerhard Jensen by scores of 6-3 and 6-1. Here another young player came into the limelight as the latter one mentioned being only ten years of age, seemed quite at home playing with the rest of them, and with a little more experience he should prove to be a good one.

Robert McIntosh lost to Hruska 4-6, 6-3 and 6-3. Both players played a cool, steady game all through, but the handicap of two points, one every game proved to be too much for McIntosh to overcome, thus losing his right to play in the semi-finals.

A large crowd is expected when the finals are reached Saturday. The interest is intense, and there has been nothing that has aroused the town so much except during the time when the Edgerton people were raving over their championship baseball team in 1898.

The following matches are scheduled for today: Parr vs. Whitett; Mabbett vs. the winners; Harsden vs. Culton; C. Jensen vs. the winner; Atwell and Whitett vs. Mabbett and Harsden; O. Jensen and W. McIntosh vs. Cleary and Miller.

CHOLERA RAGES IN ITALY;
MOBS RIOT, KILL, BURN

Official Statement Shows 1,635 New Cases and 693 Deaths in Eight Days.

London, Sept. 1.—That cholera is spreading to all parts of Italy is indicated by the following story received in this city by mail from Rome, after having been stopped by the Italian telegraph censor:

Cases of cholera continue all over Italy, notably at Leghorn, Rome, Naples and other principal seaport towns. Hundreds of dead are left unburied for lack of men willing to inter them.

In Naples there were 104 cases and 46 deaths; in the province of Genoa 88 cases and 19 deaths and in the province of Palermo 30 cases and 9 deaths. There were many cases in Rome.

An outbreak of cholera is reported at Verbania, in Calabria, with 82 new cases. The populace, angered at the spread of the plague and the inaction of the mayor and other dignitaries, set fire to the municipal buildings and shot and killed a magistrate sent to calm them.

They then seized the mayor's secretary, Agostino Amorusi, and after subjecting him to terrible tortures cut off his head and paraded it upon a pole. The mayor escaped a like fate by shutting himself up in his house.

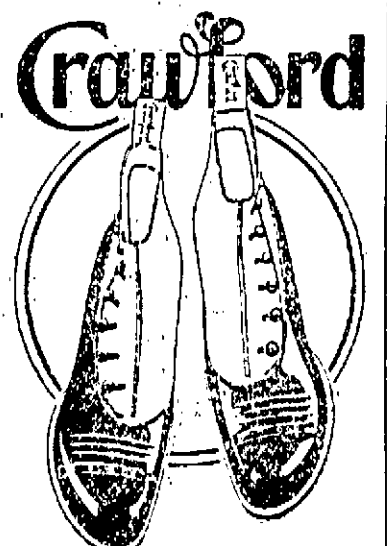

Chivasso, Switzerland, Sept. 1.—According to an official statement by the Italian government which has just reached here there were 1,635 cases of cholera and 693 deaths from the disease in Italy in the seven days from August 26 to 32, inclusive.

The Power of Music.
Euripides (B. C. 480-406) was one of the celebrated tragic Greek poets who discoursed on music in this wise: "No one has found out how to soothe with music and sweet symphony those bitter pangs by which death and misfortune destroy families; and yet to assuage such griefs by music were wisdom." The music of the Greeks evidently had the power to stir or calm emotions, although neither melodic nor harmonic as the terms are understood today.

Owners of the fastest horses in the city are training their horses daily for the races at the Janesville Driving Park on Monday, Labor Day, and some fast mathees have been pulled off recently, the drivers taking their animals out on the tracks every afternoon. A friendly spirit of rivalry is current among the horsemen and it is understood that the steeds will be put to their utmost speed in Monday's contests. There was a rumor of a twenty-five dollar side bet among some of the owners, but it is said that this is not true.

Only local horses are entered in the races and each owner is required to drive his own horse, so the fun will be lively for the local lovers of horse racing. The entrants have been divided into two classes and there will be two races. The entries are as follows:

TIRE CASING TAKEN FROM AUTOMOBILE

New Tire, Valued At $25, Stolen From Machine Belonging To A. V. Lyle, Which Was Left In Front of Cafe All Night.

Sometime between midnight and this morning a new automobile tire-casing and holder, valued at twenty-five dollars was stolen from the automobile of A. V. Lyle, which was left standing in front of Toft's cafe on West Milwaukee street. The tire, which was a 30 by 3½ inch casing, Diamond make, was left on the machine last night by Mr. Lyle, when he returned from Beloit. Coming back at a late hour, the garage, where he has been in the habit of storing the machine was closed so he left the car, with the lights burning in front of the cafe, thinking it would be safe until morning. The theft is thought to have been committed by local talent. The police department was notified and Chief of Police Appleby instituted a search, but up until late this afternoon no trace of the stolen property had been found.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Milton, Sept. 1.—A. O. Gifford who recently suffered a stroke of apoplexy died last night. He had not recovered from the attack to any extent prior to his death. He came to this state in early days and for many years had made this village his home. He came here from Johnston. He was a veteran of the Civil war, having served in the 13th Wisconsin regiment. Mr. Gifford was also a member of the G. A. R. and of the I. O. O. F. Funeral services will be held tomorrow, Saturday, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon from the house.

HONORS TO ELDERLY CLINTON HORSEMAN AT FAIR YESTERDAY

Joseph Basset Presented With Large Bouquet At Beloit Tracks As Oldest Horseman On the Grounds.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Clinton, Sept. 1.—Joseph Basset of this place was given quite an ovation at the Beloit fair Thursday afternoon. Mr. Basset was awarded 1st premium as the oldest driver, as he was 77 years old and the horse he drove was 28 years old. When he appeared on the track he was presented with a handsome bouquet of flowers. Afterwards he and his horse were photographed as they appeared on the track.

Mr. Basset would never be taken for his age, as he drives his horses in training every day regardless of weather, and everybody has a good word for "Uncle Joe" as he is affectionately called by every one here.

Had Bad Accident.

Miss Genevieve Becker had a narrow escape Wednesday evening from a painful injury, when she ran out to the drive way when her father drove in with the dray, which he had been using that afternoon. The little Miss Becker, who is 10 years old, was standing on the sidewalk when she slipped and fell under the wheel, which passed over her left foot. She was picked up by her father, who expected of course to find her leg broken, but thanks to the soft gravel, severe bruises were all the damage done by the heavy vehicle.

Miss Mary Hollenbeck, who is very ill with pneumonia, is reported as feeling better and holding her own very nicely.

UNCLE WALT THE POET PHILOSOPHER

(Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams.) By WALT MASON.

Dr. Willey's called on to decide the pregnant question: "What is beer?" (It'll split the subject open wide and hand a verdict down this year. He might consult some drowsy bum who has a dark and mournful tale of how from allium a cell in jail. Beer is a good and harmless drink if you but let the stuff alone; while bottled up, like purple ink, it never caused a sigh or groan. But if you pour it down your throat, one bottle clamors for its mate; it starts right in to get your goat, and it will get it, soon or late. This drink in which such virtue lies, will fill your head with aches and pains, and give you puffed and crimson eyes, and scatter cobwebs through your brains. On energy it puts the craps; in useful work it huts to launch; it puts new outlines on your shape until it leaves you mostly fat. It spells your appetite for food—beer, beer alone is all you beg—until you are a human keg. And when your love for beer you lose, because it fails to hit the spot, you fondly turn to stronger booze, and drink it till your insides rot.

Cost of Vice.

It costs more to satisfy vice than to feed a family.—Butzke.

LA FOLLETTE HITS AT TAFT

Declares Presidency Is Not Necessarily the Highest Honor.

Williams Grove, Pa., Sept. 1.—Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, the principal speaker at the mass meeting held here under the auspices of the State Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, only casually mentioned the presidency and did not discuss reciprocity and other national issues.

"The reference to the presidency was made toward the close of the senator's speech. 'What is it to be governor or president for the honor of it alone?' he demanded. 'As to the presidency, I will say only this: Almost anybody who has a good, broad conception of the conditions that exist in this country would like to be president if he could bring government back to the people. I would rather have the little part I'm going to have as one of the men who help to make that movement the fundamental thing in the life of the American people, than to have the place that some men who have been president will have in the history of this republic.'

Two Killed in a Mine Riot.

Clarksburg, Ark., Sept. 1.—In a riot which broke out at the Montana Coal Mining camp, six miles west, two men were killed and a third fatally injured. The cause of the riot has not been learned.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

A PETTICOAT INSURRECTION

By A. W. MACY.

Mobile, Ala., was founded very early in the eighteenth century. At that time almost the whole southern part of what is now the United States was under French dominion. The colony had many ups and downs, and a full quota of the experiences incident to pioneer life. At one time a ship brought over from the mother country, along with a supply of food and merchandise, "23 good and virtuous maidens, under charge of two gray nuns." It is recorded that all these maidens were well married to worthy gentlemen settlers within a month after their arrival—all but one, who could not find a man to suit her. Later on the food became scarce, and these wives rose in rebellion, and demanded that they should be given something better to eat than common Indian corn or meal. They must have pushed their demands vigorously, for it is said the rebellion greatly taxed the patience and ingenuity of the governor, Blenville. The episode is known in local annals as the Petticoat Insurrection.

KELLER WILL BEGIN HIS TERM TOMORROW

Aged Man Sentenced in Circuit Court Yesterday For Murder of Mrs. Hirschke, Go To Waupun Saturday.

Louis Keller, who yesterday pleaded guilty to the charge of murder of Mrs. Johanna Hirschke before Judge Corman in the circuit court will be taken to Waupun tomorrow to begin his term of life imprisonment. Keller stated to the sheriff this morning that he did not want to go today. He gave no reason for his desire, but as he had several business matters that he wished to settle before he left Janesville, this accounts for the delay.

He will undoubtedly go tomorrow morning, accompanied either by Sheriff Ransom or Turnkey Kemp. The old man seemed in fairly good spirits today, which he realized would probably be his last in Janesville.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Auto Parties: Auto parties at the Myers Hotel yesterday included John A. Trippe and four of Belvidere, Ill.; and J. D. Murphy, W. F. Merle, Herman Van Drey and James Gella of Chicago.

Gray To Jail: Charles Gray, of Milwaukee, was sent to jail today for six days in default of payment of a fine of $3 and costs of $4. Gray was arraigned in municipal court this morning for drunkenness.

Kohloff Case Adjourned: The case of the state of Wisconsin against Frank Kohloff in municipal court, was adjourned this morning to October 1st. Kohloff is charged with neglect and refusal to support his children, but the children are now being cared for by a great-aunt in Chicago. Kohloff, however, owes the county money for expenses in the case and as soon as this is paid, the charges will be dismissed. He thought he would be able to pay his debt within a month, so the case was adjourned.

Marriage Licenses: Yesterday was a record day for marriage licenses at the county clerk's office, eight being the total number issued. Those issued later in the afternoon were to the following: Paul Gencelard and Agatha Berto, both of Beloit; Henry Luedeking and Mary Link, both of Freeport, who secured a special permit and were married last evening by Rev. Piche; Henry Joseph Hayes of Milwaukee, and Agnes Phoebe Cunningham of Janesville.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

I HAVE heard a good deal lately about the philosophy of happiness, and the mental and moral and physical value of a smile. But there is one argument for smiling that I don't remember to have heard much used,—and that is the prettiness-value of a smile. Do the corners of your mouth naturally droop down? If they do, go and stand in front of a mirror, and prop them up with your fingers over so slightly, and see if your whole face does not become not only pleasanter but prettier.

I think it will, for the prettiness-value of a pleasant expression, is not just in its temporary lighting up of a face—it is also the mould in which it leaves the face that counts the most.

The homeliest girl I know is one whose disconcerted position has drawn down the corners of her mouth, and whose habit of continual frowning has marked two sharp wrinkles between her eyes. In other details of appearance she is not particularly blessed but without these disfigurements she would be simply ordinarily plain. With them she is—as I before remarked—the homeliest girl I know.

I have no doubt at all but that the majority of people more thoroughly enjoy gazing at a homely pleasant face, in which the corners of the mouth are turned up and there are no frown wrinkles, and where the sun of smiles often shines than at a prettily featured face, marked by frown wrinkles and an unhappy mouth.

Surely a pleasant day in an ordinary locality is more beautiful than a drizzly rain in the loveliest spot on earth.

So don't be too serious—don't think pensiveness is pretty or pouting attractive. They are allowable to some slight extent, of course, but only in sufficient quantity to help us appreciate the smiles. There would be no high lights in the picture if there were no shadows—we would not half appreciate sunshine if there were no cloudy days.

Of course, you don't want to smile all the time, but I don't think there is any danger of that. I never knew but one girl who smiled too much, and I think she was feeble-minded.

Don't forget that pretty coloring and regular features make up only two-thirds of beauty—these are the body and mind of beauty—its soul is expression.

And an attractive expression is not only that which reflects the animation of a lively mind, and mirrors the sweetness of a lovely soul, but that which often warms and gladdens us with the sunshine of smiles.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

UNCOOKED VEGETABLES IMPORTANT IN DIETARY.

In some cases the chemical and mechanical changes produced by firing make some elements of the food, aside from the albumen, already dealt with, very indigestible. Raw cabbage, for instance, is digestible in an hour, and is very nutritious, but boiled cabbage is extremely indigestible and worthless, except as a relish. Roasted beans produce sulphuretted hydrogen in the intestine. Poisonous compounds may be formed when several foods are mixed.

Vegetable cells have life, which fire destroys, changing the vital quality of the food. Life is sustained only by life. Hence the importance in the dietary of such fresh uncooked vegetables and greens as cabbage, tomatoes, lettuce, etc.

FADS AND FASHIONS

New York, Aug. 31.—The fall season is rapidly approaching and the big shops display a large variety of autumn goods in anticipation of the demand for such goods with the coming of cooler weather. The models shown in the shops, however, are of the most commonplace type, without being limited to freshen the fashionable styles of the coming season. The models shown by the more exclusive houses along Fifth Avenue are somewhat more definite in style, but the ideas expressed are all more or less tentative. Nothing of an authoritative character is to be expected until later, after the famous Paris designers have laid their autumn openings.

Double-faced materials are much in evidence and there is every indication that they will be extremely fashionable during the coming season. Some of these new double-faced stuffs are wonderfully beautiful in texture and color. Many of these materials in wool have a heavy shelling finish, and the color contrasts in the two faces are admirably harmonious. Some particularly good color effects are obtained in the rich browns, backed by tawny yellow tones, and indeed the yellows play a rather important role in the season's color chart.

The late summer has brought yellow into decided prominence. Abroad, tones of lemon, straw and various brownish and greenish yellow shades having been exceedingly modish in combination with white, and this tendency, as well as the vogue of beige in combination with white or gray, will doubtless find reflection in the autumn fashions.

The most beautiful double-faced materials seen so far are certain silk serges of pronounced diagonal cord and of wonderful lustre, softness and richness, having body without bulk. These silks are in decided yet perfectly harmonized color contrasts. A beautiful deep taupe, for example, may have for backing just the right tone of violet or green or blue. A seal brown shows a reverse side of exquisite purple or dull, soft orange. A very deep blue is combined with rich fuchsia, red or mahogany green. Iron gray cord sorts with the deep straw yellow, which has been a summer fad in Paris. Black is faced with any and all of the soft yet glowing fashionable colors.

Changeable colorings also promise well, not only in the silks, which have been a summer mainstay abroad and have been taken up to a considerable extent here, but in other silks as well. Mottos showing more or less pronounced cording in their weave and changeable colorings are among the loveliest of the new silks and there are also changeable bengalines and some very effective townies in color shot with black or white.

Two especially successful offerings in the lounge weave, which has not been much to the fore in recent seasons and which is much more supple than it originally was, are in a light silvery gray shot with black and white, which gives a shifting shadowy play over the lustrous mound in surface, and in a yellow approaching the new bluish tone, though with a touch more of bronze shot with black.

One is inclined to put confidence in the success of the gray this season. Exquisite shades of this color are to be found among the loveliest of the new materials which cannot fail to appeal to the taste of the fastidious. Purple seems to be extremely popular and is likely to be done to death on that account. Much of the early millinery and many of the advance models of frocks and accessories sound this purple note; and while one must admit its effectiveness, the woman who cannot afford to buy early in the season and throw aside later will do well to be cautious and to avoid the lure of the purple.

Wash suits are features for the far end of the summer season by the little big shops. Judging from the numbers displayed, women are favoring suits of linen, particularly the rough weaves, which do not wrinkle so easily as those of smoother texture. Aside from the large collars and cuffs made of contrasting colors or striped linen, there is little or no trimming on the most popular models. Many, in fact, are built on mannish lines and have the simple, notched collar and coat sleeves typical of a man's garments.

Natural colored linen seems to be most popular, although white, and the varying shades of purple and lavender are seen to some extent. Havana brown, navy, delft and light blue and a few of the darker green shades are also included in the list of popular colors.

The newest suits from abroad show a jacket averaging from 28 to 30 inches in length. These are to be the most notable in early fall designs. They are shown in varying styles, some being straight cut from the shoulder to the hips, while others are made to give the short-waisted effect. This short-waisted style is principally used on the dressier suits, while the straight cut is used on the plain and practical ones.

A good deal of attention is paid the collars, revers and cuffs, which are frequently of satin or silk, while some are of linen in a contrasting shade. Plain black satin remains in favor for trimming.

The incroyable revers are again much in evidence, and some of the new models show a revers on one side only. While the satin collar is not so prominent as it was, it has not been entirely eliminated. Many pointed collars are shown, and the large round collar with hood effects at the back. The skirts adhere to the present fashion of straight lines, close fitting about the hips, but show a little more width at the hem.

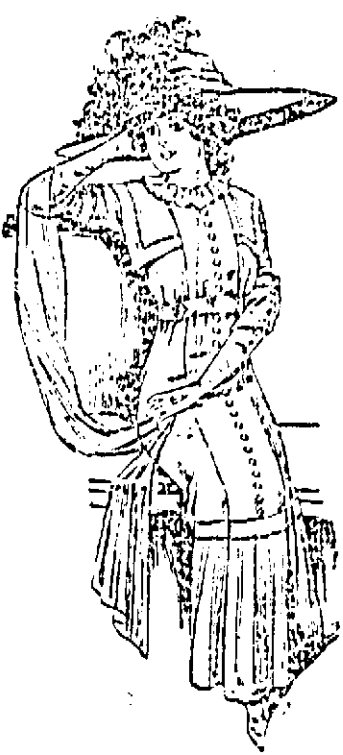

The new double collarettes are among the most attractive of the new ideas in neck adornment. These fully crepe-like encircle the neck instead of the stiff boned collar or its uncomfortable relation, the linen collar, and rising from a corolla of cloudy fabric the face appears soft and flower-like.

These collarettes are made of tulle, mousseline de sole or of embroidered handkerchief linen. Most of them show edges of bands or of fine silk fringe joined to the material with rows of French knots or beads.

Embroidered muslin fichus and fichus of tulle, with a narrow flounce outlining them, are the order of the day. They give a novel character to the time, and make a dress of broderie anglaise or embroidered lawn of last season quite up to date. The sleeves are short and the elbow finished with a narrow flounce of either tulle or muslin to match the fichu, and the neck is "filled in" with plain tulle or net, surmounted by a high collar band well boned and neatly fastened at the back.

With the return of the full sleeve the vogue for the top cut or the mantellette is doubly assured. The blending of satin and velvet with embroidered lavas and broderie anglaise is flourishing in the new tulle models.

FLORENCE FAIRBANKS.

FUDGE AND SILENCE.

For mid-summer wear at shore or summer resorts this frock will appeal to the young girl; the design is simple, but comfortably fashionable. The material is white with a white Irish crochet pattern, and the bodice and skirt are trimmed with white Irish lace. The skirt is full and the hem is finished with a wide white lace band.

GHOST PARTY WAS HELD BY YOUNG PEOPLE LAST NIGHT

Miss Hazel Ketchpaw, who leaves City in near future, entertained Company of Friends Last Night. At the home of Miss Hazel Ketchpaw, 102 Locust street, a "ghost" convention was held last evening. The decorations of the home were in keeping with the party and the evening was spent in telling ghost stories. Light refreshments were served at midnight. Miss Ketchpaw leaves soon for Appleton to attend Lawrence college. The guests at the party were the Messrs. Ruth, Henshaw, Margaret Wray, Amy Williams, Mrs. Kelly, Mabel Manger, Muriel Hayland, Hazel Ketchpaw and Henry Fitzgerald, Norman Hild, Gerald Wood, Robert Chase, George and Ira Austin.

Teach Poor Women to Cook.

Salads of the home economics club of the east have established "centers" with all cooking school conveniences, where poor women may be taught how to keep house and cook economically. There is no fancy cooking taught, but simply the things that are served by the poor people themselves each day, only they are taught to keep account of the expense and cook economically.

Finding of Fresh-Water Cel.

The straits of Messina are channels of immense depth, through which a wild form of whirling eddies have the effect of bringing up from the depths below many marine creatures which are rarely seen except in the deep sea travels. It was here that the fresh-water cel was first discovered, an incident which threw a blaze of light on the life history of a very mysterious fish.—London Daily Telegraph.

PUNCHES FOR PARTIES.

When serving a drink for a large company, it is always wise to use small bottles of effervescent water, adding a pint at a time rather than a quart bottle, as it soon loses its sparkle unless often renewed.

Ginger Punch.—From a quart jar of carbon ginger take three-quarters of a pound of the ginger, chop fine, add a quart of cold water and a cup of sugar; boil twenty minutes, then add three-fourths of a cup of orange juice, half a cup of lemon juice and three tablespoonsful of ginger syrup. Strain and pour over large pieces of cracked ice in the punch bowl. Add a pint of Apollinaris water when beginning to serve and later add more as it loses its sparkle. This amount will serve forty people.

Fruit Punch.—Boil together a quart of water and two cups of sugar until clear; add a cup of tea infusion and cool, then add two cups of raspberry syrup, the juice of five oranges and five lemons, a can of pineapple and a cup of maraschino cherries. Pour over cracked ice in a punch bowl, add a pint of Apollinaris and later another pint or two. This serves fifty people.

German Punch.—Mix together and cook a cup and three-fourths of tomatoes, three chopped apples, a small piece of ginger root, two cups of water and a cup of sugar. After thirty minutes' cooking rub through a sieve and add three tablespoonsful each of orange juice, lemon and grape juice. Freeze to a mush.

Delicious little cakes to serve with punches are made by using any rich white cookie dough; roll out and cut in small cubes, and on each place a half teaspoonful of almond paste before putting into the oven. This paste may be bought in cans, but as it is rather expensive, when using a small quantity it is best to buy it of the confectioner.

SHE GOT WHAT SHE WANTED

This Woman Had to Insist Strongly, but it Paid

Chicago, Ill.—"I suffered from a female weakness and stomach trouble, and I went to the store to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, but the clerk did not want to let me have it—he said it was no good! I wanted to try something else, but knowing all about it I insisted and finally got it, and I am so glad I did, for it has cured me."

"I know of so many cases where women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I can say to every suffering woman that medicine does not help her, there is nothing that will."—Mrs. JAS. T. ZILL, 206 Arch St., Chicago, Ill.

This is the age of substitution, and women who want a cure should insist upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound just as this woman did, and not accept something else on which the druggist can make a little more profit.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of these distressing ailments to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Thought for Today

By MRS. ROBERT M. LAFFLETTE.

THE SOCIAL WHIRL.

YOU get into a red plush seat of a vehicle that seems to be a cross between an old-fashioned hobble and a modern street car, you go whizzing down and whizzing around and whizzing up and whizzing back. It costs ten cents, and is called "the Social Whirl." "Not very dignified," I hear you say. No. "Not very much fun." No. But I do not know when I have had as good a laugh as when we finished that ride into which the children involved me.

You put on your best clothes, your best manner, your best smile, your best carriage, drive to the first place you see, pass swiftly down the long rooms, bowing, smiling, giving a hand here and there, look into the dining room, admire the flowers, escape by the hall through the front door, and are ready for the next whirl. It lasts longer and costs more than the Linn Park stunt, but is there not a striking parallel?

What is the charm of the social whirl, which we keep up from New Year's to Lent here in Washington? Is not the attraction very much akin to the fascination of a merry-go-round for children? A little of it for recreation and amusement is all very well, but months of it makes one dizzy and tired.

There is a distinct value in just meeting people. I believe in the occasional large social gathering. It gives a touch to life many might not otherwise get. I believe in the cup of tea, the luncheon and dinner where we relax and have a pleasant interchange of thought, a good story and a merry laugh. But stereotyped social whirl is surely an uneconomical use of time and money.

The Candid Girl

by Barbara Boyd.

Advises Certain Temperaments Against the Photographic Business.

A PHOTOGRAPHER, it seems to me," said the Candid Girl, "is excusable for being a pessimist."

"I'll turn photographer," said the Grouchy One. "Probably that's my calling."

"Don't," replied the Candid Girl, "you'd be bankrupt in six months. Your habit of plain speaking would lose you every customer that ventured into your establishment, and probably bring you several libel suits in the bargain."

The Grouchy One pulled his mustache.

"For instance, when the snub-nosed girl came in, you would probably tell her you were no dermatologist, and you couldn't make a turn-up nose look straight in a photograph or anywhere else. And when some homely woman asked you, if you couldn't take a pretty picture of her, you would undoubtedly say that the only way to do that was to take her back."

"Then when some of them put on a smirking smile, you would remark that Mona Lisa's smile might be famous, but that theirs wasn't and never would be. So, you wouldn't do for a photographer," said the Candid Girl, studying the Grouchy One critically. "For though a photographer may be excusable for being a pessimist, he really must have impregnable optimism. He never could endure the strain, if he hadn't a sense of humor, and didn't look at life hopefully. For if there ever was a time when every mile of vanity in a person crops out, it is when he pays a visit to a photographer. I wonder if the person who said, 'all is vanity,' was a photographer? Even the woman who thinks she hasn't a scrap of vanity—"

"There isn't any such woman," said the Grouchy One.

"Will find a few particles floating to the top when she goes to the photographer's," went on the Candid Girl without heeding the interruption. "She'll have to know if there isn't some way he can make her look pretty, and she nurses the hope that by some act of magic, he will turn her into a Hebe. And when she sees the negative, she is sure he doesn't know his business or didn't take any pains with her sitting."

"He shouldn't expect a woman to be reasonable," said the Grouchy One.

"He may be able to work a few wrinkles out of the picture by photographic massage," said the Candid Girl reflectively, "but he can't transform the thin, square-jawed woman into a dimpled beauty, no matter how he lets the light fall, nor at what angle he takes her. Yet they all think that somehow or other he can."

"The only time that life seems really worth living to a photographer," concluded the Candid Girl, "is when a really pretty girl comes in."

"A pretty girl makes life worth living for most any of us," said the Grouchy One.

"Not always," replied the Candid Girl rascally. "But she certainly hits the photographer right. For it is a dead sure thing for him to do what she wants, which is to take a pretty picture. And when a woman gets what she wants, she can be exceedingly nice."

"You wouldn't advise me, then, to open a photographic studio?" asked the Grouchy One.

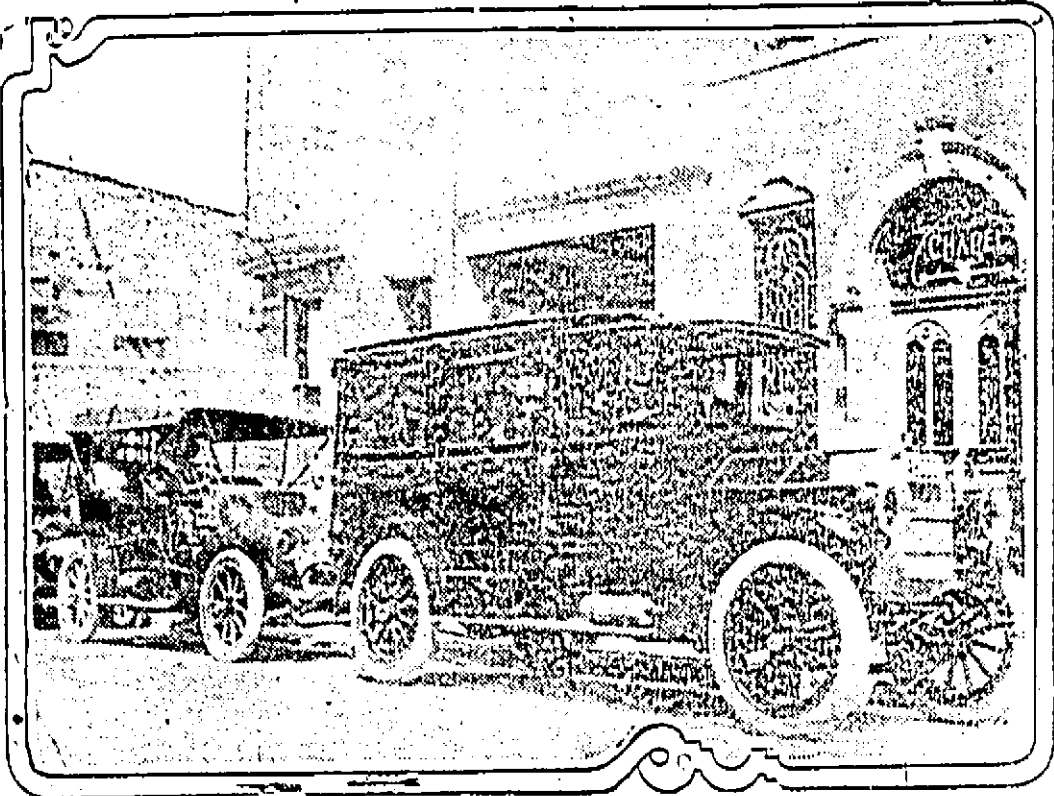

"No, I wouldn't, unless you go at it in the missionary spirit, and not with any desire to earn a living. No doubt, what you would tell people would be good for their souls, but it would hardly make business prosper."

AUTOMOBILE FUNERAL HERE.
Picture of the first automobile funeral held in America.

Cincinnati, O.—The automobile funeral is here. The first one was held in Cincinnati the other day and because it was the first one, it was given to a poor laborer who never rode in an automobile before and he went to his grave in more style than any millionaire over did.

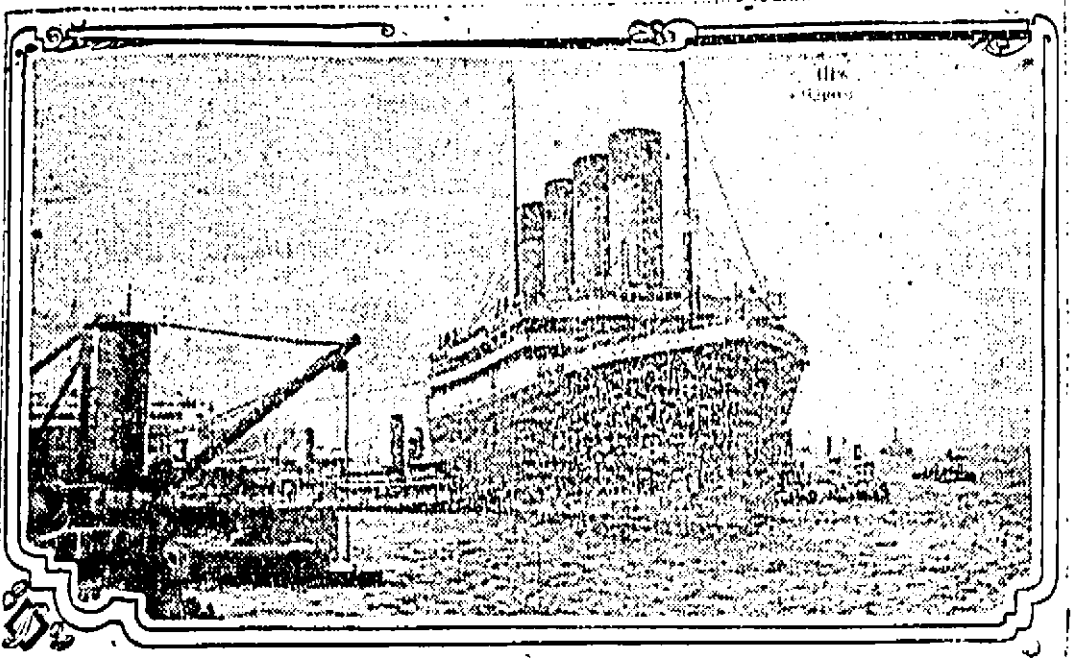

The above picture shows the auto funeral. The hearse is a 50 horse power silent limousine auto type and the coffin slides in on a level with the draped windows. The spacious interior below the coffin is for carrying as the autos go twice as fast and lose no time coming back.

Fully Explained.
The pastor was not a covetous man, yet when July 17 passed without a remembrance from the couple that had sent him an annual wedding fee ever since he had married them on that date in Springfield, Ill., fifteen years before, he began to worry. As his perplexity deepened another old parishioner called and he hastened to make inquiries of the delinquents' welfare. "I don't know the couple," said the inquirer, "but as soon as I get back to Springfield I will look them up and let you know." Three days later the pastor received a one-word telegram which explained the absence of this year's wedding fee. "Reno" was what it said.

New Kink in Advertising.
The latest trick of the cinematograph, says the London Pall Mall Gazette, is to show scenes from a fashionable thoroughfare, theater or driving park. After the little drama has been played, there appears in the gateway whence the crowd issued the words: The dresses worn by the ladies in the last picture were made by the celebrated —, whoever the dress-maker may be who is advertising her establishment.

Not So Bad.
Since 1825 the clothing of men has grown simpler and simpler, and if the course of evolution has taken away from the picturesqueness of the crowd, it has added to the dignity of the man.

Buying Ordinary Clothing is Like Getting Lost in a Crowd

When you are found, you don't know yourself. Don't sink your personality into that of a thousand others. Have your clothes made for you. Be picked out from the rest. Nothing so adds to the satisfaction of a man as to be well dressed. The clothes we build in this shop bring out your personality, and in the contests of life personality wins.

We have all of the latest weaves and are showing some beautiful fabrics. It is impossible to describe the new creations in words, they must be seen to be appreciated. The beautiful Georgian Coronation in its subdued character, the Gray Soft Finish Diagonals, and the Soft Finish Cassimeres, in all of their shadings, will make up into clothes, which have never yet been equalled in the annals of tailoring.

Our Top Coat fabrics are also far in advance of anything previously shown, and are very attractive, in their range. They are being shown in the staple Shetlands, in the blacks, blues and greys.

A wide range of choice, so the most conservative man is assured of satisfaction.

Come in and look over our cloths and you will leave your order. My prices are right and my work is guaranteed to be satisfactory in every respect.

NOTES FOR CITY FARMERS ONLY.

(By H. L. RANN.)

Scaly specialists tell us that the military hair brush is responsible for more baldness in man and beast than the dandruff cure which has passed the acid test with the cheerful grin of the chump who spoils a fresh shine by balaning himself on your oxfords in the street car.

This brush goes down deeper than the prosecuting attorney in a divorce suit, and when set at the proper angle it leaves a track like a baby cart on the beach.

It is a deafler enemy to falling hair than old age or a sea foam tonic.

A good many of the fashionable hotels of the country are introducing pumpkin seed tea as a vermifuge.

The plan is a good one. The pumpkin has been the butt of ridicule in song and story ever since it displaced the Hubbard squash as a choice eatable, but we are here to say that a nine-inch slab of pumpkin pie washed down with elder vinegar and still pickles, will make a section hand's stomach sit up and take notice.

The man who chaps a cold pumpkin pie to his bonum on an empty stomach and survives the ordeal will never need a massage for his digestive apparatus.

The alleged milk-fed spring chicken is a bigger joke than the civil service laws. The man who attempts to bring up his chickens on the bottle will need more rubber tubing than a fountain syringe and as many points of contact as a mechanical milker.

While it is true that a diet of lathered milk has steered many a pulling pullet safely through the teething period its use is not to be recommended as it is liable to introduce hiccoughs into the henery. Stick to the good old bill of fare of sharp sand and ground glass.

LOVE I. ALL.

When Socrates was asked why he had built for himself so small a house, he replied, "Small as it is, I wish I could fill it with friends."

These, indeed, are all that a wise man would desire to assemble; for a crowd is not company, and faces are but a gallery of pictures, and talk but a tingling cymbal, where there is no love.

Rude Comment.

"I don't see any point in your joke."

"Well, you needn't be so blunt."

CASCARETS WORK WHILE YOU SLEEP

Salts, Calomel and Cathartic Pills are violent—they act on bowels as pepper acts in nostrils.

Take a Cascaret tonight and thoroughly cleanse your Liver, Stomach and bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out.

Are you keeping clean inside with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? This is important.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the decomposed waste matter and poison from the intestines and bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret tonight will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

In offering this sale of Remnants, we give you bargains worthy of your prompt attention.

As a Disturbing Element.

Mrs. Ferguson (after the guest had gone)—George, why didn't you ask Dr. Ferguson to say grace?

Mr. Ferguson—I was afraid it wouldn't do, Laura; there were too many things on the table of which Dr. Woods Hutchinson disapproves.

Harmony.

"Why did you take such an extreme optimistic view of the debate Amy?"

"Well, you see, my dress was trimmed with bright pink ribbon, so I had to take a rosy view to match."

Topical.

"What is that piece you were playing?" asked the New York hostess.

"It used to be Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March,'" replied the musician, "but I have put it into ragtime and so titled it 'The Reno Quickstep.'"

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, Friday, September 1, 1871.

School Matters.

We made a brief visit to the high school building this morning where the examination of teachers to fill vacancies in the public school is in progress, under the direction of Prof. Parker and a committee of the board of education. There are nineteen applications for the nine vacancies, most of whom are young ladies without much experience as teachers, but possessed, evidently, of knowledge, energy and determination, enough to fit them for the responsible positions for which they are striving.

The city schools open on Monday, the fourth instant, for teachers only. Institute exercises are to be held at the high school building during the day. Tuesday the pupils are expected to be in their respective places at the regular exercises of the fall term will begin on that day.

From New York.

Much alarm is felt here about the cholera since its appearance at Hamburg and the account of the dreadful condition of our streets. The view generally entertained of the pestilence is that Hamburg is a German Bombay and just ten days from us. It is nearer to us now than when it was in Hull. There is a constant traffic between New York and Hamburg. Thirteen first class steamers, to say nothing of the fleets of sailing vessels, bring us within less than a fortnight of the great German ports.

How to Find Fault.

Find fault, when you must find fault, in private; and some time after the offense, rather than at the time. The blamed are less inclined to resent when they are blamed without witnesses; both parties are calmer and the accused party is struck with the forbearance of the accuser, who has seen the fault and watched for a private and proper time for mentioning it.

Knitting Needle in Her Body.

Heat Adds to Absorption.

Researches in Germany show that a given quantity of red-hot coke will absorb four times the amount of water that will be absorbed by the same coke if cold.

All clovers do well, and Wild Pans, which are a species of the Clover, are found native on these lands, and furnish excellent pasture and the most nutritious hay for horses and milch cows.

Clover is the most valuable crop that can be grown by the farmer for pasture, for his hay and for seed, as well as for the enrichment of the soil. The soil that will grow it as does this soil will never become impoverished.

CHATTANOOGA

A FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY
BY F. A. MITCHELL.

Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association.

Laura burst into a torrent of tears. This man, who had so suddenly appeared in her life; who had won her sympathy; who had absorbed her whole being into his daring, chivalrous, reckless nature—this man loved her, and he was doomed.

With a cry she threw her arms around his neck.

"Laura, sweetheart," said Mark, caressing her, "we have but little time. We know not when we shall have to face. My true character must soon be known. Will you give yourself to one who will doubtless tomorrow be chained by—"

"This as she put her hand over his mouth that he might not speak the word 'death'."

"Will you? Speak?"

"Yes, now, quick; what can we do?"

"Marry ourselves."

"How?"

"He grasped her hand. There was a ring upon it—a plain gold band. He took it off, and putting it on her finger again said:

"I, Mark—"

"Is it really Mark?"

"Yes, I am Mark Maynard. I, Mark, take you, Laura, to be my wife. Do you take me to be your husband?"

"I do."

"Then we are man and wife in the sight of God—"

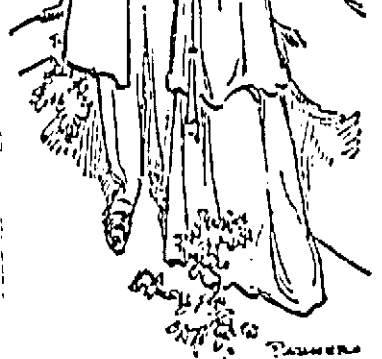

"And for man we care not."

"Man and wife under the law. We are really married."

Scarcely was this hurried ceremony over when a cavalierman came riding toward them to watch Mark.

"There was nothing left for them to do but return to the house. As they walked Mark whispered:

"I feel again all the confidence I have ever felt. I must live to make

"DO YOU TAKE ME TO BE YOUR HUSBAND?"

you happy. Be ready for anything that may happen, my darling, my wife. I shall doubtless play some bold game; I don't know what, but it will be bold. If I leave you suddenly, meet me (should I succeed in my attempt) within the Union lines. If not, we will meet—in heaven."

CHAPTER XV.

IT was nine o'clock in the evening. Major Tallferro and his guests were sitting in his office room chatting. A clatter of horses' hoofs was heard at the front of the house and some one dismounted. In another moment there was a tramp of cavalry boots in the hall; all turned to the open door—and there stood Captain Cameron Fitz Hugh.

For a moment he regarded Mark and Laura sternly; then advancing a few steps he bowed low to Laura.

"Captain," said the major rising, "I suppose it is useless to deny to this lady and gentleman that I deemed it my duty to make sure of their identity before allowing them to pass. The family to which they claim to belong is known to you; therefore I sent to you for information. I see you have answered my inquiry in person. If you vouch for them I shall be happy to pass them in the morning, and shall apologize for their detention at the same time—my excuse being the cause we serve."

All eyes were fixed on Fitz Hugh, Mark's and Laura's with ill concealed anxiety.

"This was Miss Fain," said Fitz Hugh. "She would not be traveling as any man's wife unless she were married to him. If you detain them, you must do so on your own responsibility."

Both Mark and Laura drew a sigh of relief.

"I have no desire to detain them," said Tallferro, "after what you have said, but it is altogether too late for them to proceed tonight. The only amends I can make for discommoding them is to make them comfortable. Mrs. Green, your room is ready for you."

"Captain," said Mark, "may I beg a cigar? I usually smoke at this time of night."

"Here are cigars, gentlemen," said Tallferro, producing a box.

"If you smoke, captain," added Mark, "I shall be pleased with your company."

"With pleasure."

All lighted cigars, and Mark and Fitz Hugh strolled out on the veranda.

"Captain," said Mark as soon as they were outside, "I have never met a man whom I have so admired, so honored, as you, and yet I have robbed you of your love. This last act of kindness to her and to me, so well indicating your magnanimity, is more than I can bear. I cannot accept anything more, even for her sake. I cannot stay here to be shielded by you and behind her skirts. I am about to leave this veranda and fly to the Union lines. Thank God, I have met one who is the soul of honor, in whose charge I leave my wife. Consider her under your care. She will doubtless need all you can give her, for I never expect to see her again. I shall doubtless be captured before tomorrow noon. If you were not my enemy, if you had not been my rival, I would love you as a brother."

Without waiting for a reply Mark left the veranda, and in another moment was lost in the darkness.

Captain Fitz Hugh stood as one petrified. Should he keep the secret—Laura's secret? He leaned against a pillar of the veranda and passed his hand over his brow.

He could not stab Laura; he could not even betray the man who had left her in his care. He did nothing.

Half an hour had elapsed when Tallferro, who had been busy with some papers, began to wonder what had become of the two men. He got up and went out on the veranda.

"Where's Green?" he asked quickly.

"Gone."

"Gone?"

"Yes, gone half an hour ago."

"What does this mean, Cameron?"

"It means that I have been keeping from you what I can keep no longer or I would. This man Green is a Federal spy."

"Cameron—my friend—great God—are you a traitor? There is something back—tell me, quick."

"Twice before he has crossed my path. He was taken and tried at Chattanooga. I was detailed to defend him. I had never seen him before. He was found guilty and sentenced to be hanged, but escaped."

"When I met him again it was at the Fain's house. Laura Fain, the woman upstairs, then my betrothed, had now—his wife, was concealing him."

"Well?"

"I saw that she was infatuated with him. She claimed him for her guest."

"Well, go on."

"I could not honorably inform on him."

"Oh, Cameron—what absurdity—what folly—what!"

"This afternoon you sent for me. I came. I saw the man I had seen twice before—with my—with the loveliest, the noblest of all women—his wife."

The major only stared at his friend; he had no words to express his feelings, his sympathy.

"When we came out here he told me that he would accept nothing further for himself at my hands; that he would not shield himself behind a woman's skirts. He walked away before me."

"And you?"

"I permitted him."

Tallferro shuddered. He knew that his friend by his act had placed himself in a terrible position.

"Cameron," he said, "do you know you are liable to be shot for this?"

"I do."

"I always told you," the major went on anxiously, "that your notions of honor were absurd, quixotic."

"The highest sense of honor is never quixotic. It is best fitted for a Christian, a soldier and a gentleman."

"And do you expect me to let this spy go?"

"No. Protect yourself—the cause. Send after him. It is I who have conspired at his escape, not you. You must not suffer."

"The cause alone is enough."

"Orderly," he called to a man standing by the gate.

The soldier approached and stood at attention.

"Go tell Captain Heath that the man who was here this evening has gone, and I want him followed and brought back. Tell him to send by all the roads."

The man saluted and went away.

"Cameron," said the major, after giving the order, "God grant that this act of yours may not be known. It will not be, for I am the only one who knows of it, and it will never pass my lips."

"I am responsible for my act, and if it becomes known I trust I shall have courage to meet the consequences like a man. The young wife who was left in my charge I leave in yours. I would gladly protect her myself, but I prefer to spare her the pain of being under my protection. If her husband is taken and she needs me, send for me."

As soon as he had gone Tallferro called a negro woman, and told her to go to the lady's room and ask her (if she had not gone to bed) to come to him, as he had a communication to make.

"Madam," said the major deferentially, "your husband has gone."

"Where?" asked Laura, with a blanched cheek.

"He walked away in the presence of Captain Fitz Hugh, who would not detain him or inform me that he had gone till he was obliged to do so."

Laura clasped her hands and mutely breathed a blessing on the man who had spared her husband for her sake.

"How long has he been gone?" she asked.

"More than half an hour."

"Have you ordered his pursuit?"

"I have."

"And he has a start of—"

"Thirty minutes."

"You'll never take him. He bears a charmed life."

"And now, madam, what can I do for you? My friend charged me to see that you have every attention."

"I will go on and join my mother."

"Tonight?"

"Tonight—now."

"Your phaeton shall be at the door in a few minutes. You must accept my escort. There will be a guard besides."

In ten minutes Laura, Major Tallferro seated beside her, six stalwart cavalry men in gray about her, was on her way to join her mother.

Mark knew the direction of the roads leading from Anderson, and believed that he could avoid the pickets. Making his way over a space covered with bushes and a low growth of timber, he struck the road by which he had come that day at a point beyond the vedette. Then half a mile's run brought him, out of breath, to a house. The occupants were not asleep, and Mark succeeded by persuasion and threats in getting a horse to take him to Slack's, promising to send it back the next day with liberal pay for its use.

He arrived at Slack's shortly before midnight, and his horse fell exhausted in the yard. Slack received him with a shotgun pointed through the cracks of the door. Mark made himself known and asked for his uniform and his arms. The old man got them for him, and taking them to the stable Mark put them on. Then he went to the stall where his horse stood. The mare knew her master when he threw his arms about her neck and seemed as glad to see him as he was to see her.

"Ah, Midge, my darling! Once on your back, old girl, and the devil may catch me if he can."

He lost no time in putting the bit in her mouth and strapping on the saddle. Then, putting his foot in the leather covered stirrup, he lifted himself into his seat.

For the first time in ten days Mark felt the comfort of being in the saddle with his arms about him.

A few steps took him out of the barn; then, turning his horse's head in the direction from which he had approached the place with Slack, he rode away among the trees. Before going a hundred yards he stopped and listened. Some sound had caught his ear. It was the gallop of horsemen. He waited, dreading a neigh from his own horse, which he patted to hold her attention. The horseman passed on down the road.

"Hide on, brave boys," said Mark; "if you're after me, the faster you go in that direction the better I'll like it."

In the light of the waning moon he tramped over the shadows of leaves as on a "crazy quilt." He crossed the Sequatchie by the ford over which Slack had guided him, and took care not to head too far down the stream, as he had done before. Then he crossed the creek near the fallen log. He struck the road by which he had left Jasper just south of the fork at which Slack had halted him. Without hesitating a moment he struck out at a brick center over the left of the two roads—the one leading to Tracy City.

Mark had never experienced such sensations as now. On his own fleet horse, his carbine slung on his shoulder, his pistol at his side, on the road to the Union camps, a wife whom he adored to join him in case he should arrive safely—why should not the spirit within him fairly glow with hope?

And never had the beautiful Midge borne her rider with such evident exhilaration.

CHAPTER XVI.

THE DAILY IS OPENED.

MARK reached Tracy City at sunrise. He did not dare to go through the place, so he skirted it, and once above it rode along the mountain plateau over a road leading directly north. He was now familiar with the country. Arriving at a place called Johnston's, he struck off to the right to Purdon, where two roads join, leading from there to Altamont.

Mark struck the main stem a few hundred yards from the junction. As he rode up a slight rise on to the road, he cast his eye to the right. There, standing at the fork, was a Confederate cavalry vedette.

He saw Mark as soon as Mark saw him. Shouting to the rest of the picket post, he dashed forward.

"Now for it, Midge!"

The animal knew by his tone that there was work to be done, and although she had been out since midnight she began the race with vigor. On sped the Union soldier, followed at a few hundred yards' distance by the Confederate, and half a mile behind by several others of the picket post. Mark was within range, but his pursuers did not care to draw rein in order to fire, doubting that if they should fail to bring him down by the bullet he would escape.

Midge old nobly, and had also not been riding up a mountain side for three or four hours would have easily distanced her pursuers. As it was, the man who followed first was gaining rapidly. Mark knew that he must either dispose of this fellow or be taken. Coming to a slight bend in the road, he rode a hundred yards beyond to a place where his pursuer must suddenly appear around the trees. Holding in his horse, he faced about and stood still with his carbine at an aim. As soon as the man appeared Mark fired.

The Confederate fell from his saddle, and his horse made off into the woods.

Barns and Barnacles.

"Pretty handsome barn, don't you think?" said the member of the city group who had been on the farm before. "Which is that?" asked the one who was on her first visit. "The large red building is the barn!" "Oh, yes! And the little buildings around it are the barnacles, are they?"

Knocking Hubby.

"My husband thinks he is very economical," said the blue-eyed woman. "He saves everything. One drawer of his desk is devoted to time tables, and he has some that are three years old."

To Make Religion Attractive.

"I wish I knew some way to make religion more attractive to the masses." "Why not have a description of heaven written by one of these men who write descriptions of summer resorts for the railroads?"

Reserve is power. He is who lives a good part of his life inside of himself. Too much speech is weakness. It is better to hold much of ourselves in reserve, to be discerned by degrees, and never to the uttermost limit.

Radium Seems Indestructible.

Radium of the highest activity never loses any of its properties. A regular output of radium means a regular increase in the quantity of radium in existence in the world. In consequence of this property, a hiring system has been developed, a procedure which will naturally hamper the development of a market.

CENTRAL FAMILY OF THE UNITED STATES—SAMUEL STEPHENS AND FAMILY.

Bloomington, Indiana.—Again the center of population has advanced. This time in a southwesterly direction. This time it is located six miles east of the center of the state. PRINCE OF WALES.

PRINCE OF WALES WITH HIS FORMAL CROWN.

The formal investiture of the Prince of Wales with his title was one of the most interesting spectacles of the recent coronation ceremonies, aside from the placing of the crowns on King George and Queen Mary. The young lad, so bright, so manly, so winning, has made a host of friends among his future subjects. The picture shows him just after the ceremony of investing him with the official title of Prince of Wales had been performed and shows the less pretentious, with its future possibilities, as the one given his father.

ASK PROBE OF PANIC CAUSES.

Committee suggested by Senator Owen to investigate the causes of the 1907 Panic.

Washington, D. C.—One of the most far-reaching investigations suggested in the last hours of the extra session of congress was one introduced by Senator Owen of Oklahoma. He proposed the appointment of the following senators as a committee with full power to investigate the panic of 1907. Senators Kern of Indiana, Works of California, Page of Vermont, Clarke of Wyoming, and Hays of Missouri. Owing to the widespread interest in the recent testimony before the steel trust investigation committee, it is thought that such a committee might be appointed to act when congress re-assembles for its regular session.

Pampered Dog's Funeral.

One of the most elaborate dog funerals on record was carried out at Buffalo the other day, at the death of the pet of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cronin. The dog, an Irish setter, was buried in a casket of white brocade satin, and the hearse which carried it was also white and was drawn by white horses. During its lifetime the setter received every attention that a pampered child could wish, and at its death an expensive coffin suitable for a child of twelve was ordered and the embalmed dog was placed in it with its head resting on a satin pillow trimmed with lace. The casket bore silver handles. The animal was buried on a farm outside the city under a wild cherry tree, in a grave lined with evergreens, and the coffin was covered with roses and carnations. A granite shaft is to be erected over the grave. The dog during its life had been pampered and drank two bottles of ale every night.

Parole Seen For J. P. Walsh.

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 1.—When the parole board meets at the Federal penitentiary here this month the first case to be considered will be that of John P. Walsh, the former Chicago banker. Mr. Walsh entered the penitentiary Jan. 18, 1910, convicted of having violated the banking laws. Recently President Taft refused to grant him a pardon, but it is believed he will be paroled when the board meets. At the direction of Attorney General Wickersham the outstanding indictments against Mr. Walsh have been quashed, thus removing the last obstacle in the way of paroling the prisoner. Mr. Walsh this week entered upon his seventy-fifth year and is one of the oldest inmates of the Federal prison.

There is a strain of metaphysics in "The Servant in the House," the remarkable play which is to be presented at the Myers Theatre Monday, Sept. 4, matinee and evening, by Hugo B. It may be said to preach a gospel somewhat akin to Christian Science when Manson, the
